

15th Annual

Writers' Conference

featuring sportswriter & author

Jeremy Schaap

author of CINDERELLA MAN, a New York Times bestseller and TRIUMPH: The Untold Story of Jesse Owens and Hitler's Olympics

An ESPN reporter since 1996, Jeremy Schaap is a correspondent for E:60, the host of ESPN Radio's The Sporting Life and a frequent contributor to Outside the Lines, NFL Countdown and College Gameday. His reports, interviews and commentaries are regularly featured on SportsCenter.

Schaap has won multiple national Sports Emmy Awards and many other honors for his work, including a national Edward R. Murrow Award, in 2012, and a National Headliner Award, in 2007. He is the author of Cinderella Man, a New York Times bestseller, and Triumph: The Untold Story of Jesse Owens and Hitler's Olympics. In December 2013, Disney secured the movie rights to Triumph and enlisted Schaap for a consulting role on the film.

His best-known stories at ESPN include a Bobby Fischer profile, which earned him the national Sports Emmy Award for writing, an award named for his father Dick Schaap, and an investigation that took him to Serbia in search of a basketball player accused of a brutal assault, which earned him the national Sports Emmy Award for journalism.

In addition to his contributions for ESPN The Magazine and ESPN.com, Schaap's work has appeared in The New York Times, Sports Illustrated, Time, The Wall Street Journal and Parade.
